

Catholic Summer Camp "Best Week" of Summer

*Article by: Brianna
Parish: Annunciation
Posted: August 27, 2009*

San Pedro Scripture Camp was definitely the best week of my summer. You feel at home once you've wrapped yourself up in the creative activities, monumental reflections and welcoming faces. The environment alone gives a taste of freedom and untouched beauty that runs through your veins while you hang out at the dock, swim or participate in sports.

There's always a friend no matter where you are to make you laugh and realize the awesomeness of each moment. Even though the day brought games and fun, evening Mass every night was a time to recognize God's presence and learn how he loves us and how we should live respectfully for Jesus. Every day brought a theme that Jesus demonstrated such as love, respect, faith, service and forgiveness. We learned in an entertaining yet meaningful way how to use those themes in our lives.

I missed everything as soon as I left... the incredible friends I already knew so well and the counselors that are there if you're homesick or just wanted the time of your life.

But mostly when I think of San Pedro, I remember the warmth in my heart, those sentimental moments I felt others' hands in mine to pray. Those thrilling (and moving) movements at San Pedro put a smile in my heart and an excited hope to reconnect with the same and new friends at San Pedro Center in the years to come.